

Urges Jews Send Youths To Israel To Study

American Jews were urged to recognize the chief rabbinate of Israel as "the final authority in Jewish religious life," by Dr. Jacob Hoffman of New York City, president of the Miraschi national education committee.

Dr. Hoffman made his recommendation to 1,200 delegates attending the twenty-ninth annual convention of the American Jewish Congress at Atlantic City, N.J., at a session devoted to the problem of cultural relations between Israel and World Jewry.

The speaker also advocated that American Jews send their youths to Israel to study and be inspired and that Israel should in turn send its religious scholars to teach and lecture.

"It is a pity that until now religious leaders have come to this country for the purpose of fundraising," Dr. Hoffman said. "We deem it vital that rabbis and scholars come here with the singular purpose of imparting knowledge."

The American Eretz Israel Corporation (AMEIC), financial instrument of the Miraschi religious-Zionist movement, announced the start of a campaign to raise $500,000 in capital investments in the United States for the purpose of aiding small business enterprises in Israel.

The delegates voted to support the corporation's drive, which was announced by Nathan Levine of New York City, AMEIC, vice-president.

A resolution, introduced by Rabbi Jacob Levinson of Brooklyn, calling upon the Jewish Agency to support the Yeshiva University, was adopted.

The religious survival of the Jewish people the world over," was approved by the delegates. The resolution called for an annual allotment of $600,000 for maintenance of the institutions and their staffs.

Maj. Shear Hashash Cohen, Israeli Army chaplain, asked the convention to support the building of synagogues throughout Israel, to help provide kosher kitchens for religious soldiers, and to aid in the purchase of bibles, religious texts and equipment for Israeli youth.

Dr. Samuel Rosenblatt of Baltimore, faculty member of Johns Hopkins University, called upon the American Miraschi movement to establish "a good neighbor policy" to help South American Jews build a strong religious community.

Says Jews Here Can Find Money For Overseas

The United Jewish Appeal helped more than 181,000 Jews emigrate from Europe and North Africa to Israel during the first six months of 1949, Henry Morgenthau Jr., general chairman of the U. J. A., reported to the national campaign executive committee in New York.

The U. J. A. is seeking $250,000,000 this year to continue its efforts at resettle displaced Jews in Israel and elsewhere. Besides the Jews taken to Israel, an additional 12,300 were settled in the United States, Canada and other countries since the beginning of the year, Mr. Morgenthau reported.

The exodus of Jews made possible the closing of fifty-five displaced persons camps in Europe. Twenty-three such camps are still in existence. Conversely, sixty-five new settlements have been established this year in Israel for the newcomers, and sixty more are to be established during the second half of 1949.

The U. J. A. is the central fundraising agency for the Joint Distribution Committee, which aids Jews in Europe and elsewhere except in Israel and the United States Palestine Appeal, which aids immigrant Jews in Israel, and the United Service for New Americans, which aids Jews in this country.

Of the 181,000 immigrants who entered Israel since the beginning of January, 84,000 have been enabled to obtain temporary or permanent residence in urban or rural areas, Mr. Morgenthau said. The remaining 66,400 are living in twenty-eight reception camps in various parts of Israel.

In addition to aiding the transfer of Jews to Israel and facilitating resettlement there, the U. J. A. through the Joint Distribution Committee, has been instrumental in outside Israel. Cash loans, vocational training and professional co-operatives enabled 100,000 European Jews to become self-supporting; medical aid was given to 80,000 a month in clinics; 35,000 children were cared for; direct relief was given to 220,000 persons and 10,000,000 pounds of food and relief supplies were shipped from the United States.

Mr. Morgenthau, in his report emphasized the magnitude of the task that still remains and asserted that U. J. A. operations were being hampered by lack of funds. He cited the fact that the number of newcomers still living in reception camps in Israel is growing and that facilities for reception in Israel are deteriorating.

Asserting that the U. J. A. can-

Asks Marshall Plan Aid For Israel

Louis Hollander, president of the State Congress of Industrial Organizations, called for extension of the Marshall Plan to the new state of Israel. Just back from a two-month tour of Western Europe and Israel, Mr. Hollander, who is also a vice-president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, said he would present his proposal to the next meeting of the national CIO executive board for consideration.

He will offer a resolution to the board urging the CIO to engage in an active drive among Administration leaders and top officials of the State Department to apply the plan to Israel. Mr. Hollander said between $800,000,000 and $900,000,000 were needed over the next few years to aid the country in its crucial and formative period.

"The United States has an interest in preserving and strengthening the new state," he said at his office, 31 West Fifteenth Street, New York, to the New York Times.

"Israel is the only democratic base in the Middle East. All other countries there are still feudal."

Mr. Hollander, a veteran foe of Communism in the American labor movement, asserted that this ideology had gained no foothold in Israel, and he predicted that it never would.

"The Jews," he observed, "have fought for 2,000 years to gain their homeland, and now they are not going to give it up to Stalin or anybody else. The Communists there are insignificant."

He pointed out that Mapam, the left-wing labor group in Israel, was more "Titoist than Stalinist" in its orientation. Members of Mapam, he said, are nationalists, opposed to Russian "chauvinism" in the same way the U. S. is opposed to Russian "chauvinism" in the same way.

Mr. Hollander has worked in praise for the way the Marshall Plan is working out in Western Europe. He said that it had been a vital factor in checking the influence of communism among the people and in the European labor movement.

"Communism has lost the battle in Western Europe," he declared. "Individual Communists may get votes and may control some unions, but generally they are despised as agents of the Cominform. They do not represent the people. Everything they do, they do with an eye to strengthening the Cominform and the Kremlin."

At the same time, Mr. Hollander was critical of the failure of Marshall Plan officials to reach the European masses more directly. He said that this could be solved by having greater labor representation on the missions of the European Cooperative Administration.

He pointed out that in the Western European democracies, labor leaders were playing a vigorous role in the affairs of their governments. He indicated that American labor officials in high diplomatic posts would find it easy to work with these individuals in a way that would be advantageous to our mutual relations.

Mr. Hollander, whose trip was made under the auspices of the Jewish Labor Committee but who also went abroad in his twin role of state CIO president and Amalgamated vice-president, said that

Israelis To Be Trained For Army

A universal military and general training plan of two-year's duration for the entire Israeli population modeled along Switzerland's mobilization scheme was revealed by David Zvi Pinkas, deputy assistant to the Speaker of Knesset (Israeli Parliament) and World Miraschi leader. At a press conference at the office of the Miraschi Organization of America in New York, Mr. Pinkas said that "in order to be prepared for any future acts of aggression, Israel must mobilize its entire population—men, women and youths."

Asserting that "Israel cannot afford to keep its entire population under arms," Pinkas disclosed his country's mobilization plan which calls for two years of service for every male youth between 18 and 20 years of age. One year will be spent in military training, and the second in general training for land-development and public utilities service. Girls of the same age level, he said, will be recruited for one year training in auxiliary military services. The entire male population, from twenty to fifty years of age, will thereafter be called up every year for several days review of their training. In this way, Pinkas added, Israel will be able to assemble its entire army on 12 hours' notice.

Youth battalions, with membership from 14 to 18 years, will also be organized, he said. Youths will be trained in military calisthenics, in hiking and camping. He said the Israeli Government has assured that religious youths will be enabled to observe kashrut and Sabbath throughout their entire course of training.

Reporting on Israel's economic problems, Pinkas, who is also chairman of the Knesset Finance and Budget Committee, announced that Israel will need $200 million in aid

Israel will provide for housing, irrigation projects, land-development, roads, communications, and airfields. He said that $60 million will be raised on internal loans, the remainder coming from international bank loans and contributions from world Jewry.

Pinkas told newsmen he had discussed the problem of balancing Israel's economy so that it will conform with general world standards with Congressman Clarence Cannon, chairman of the U. S. Congress Appropriations Committee, Emanuel Celler, and Oscar Gas, economic advisor to the Israeli Embassy's finance ministry in Washington. As a result of these talks, Pinkas said he was "optimistic" over Israel's economic future.

Pointing out that the present Israeli Government "is doing everything in its power to aid private investments in Israel," Pinkas urged Americans not only to invest in the new state's growing economy, but also to help with their experience, technical knowledge, and business skill.

The $300,000 investment program undertaken by the American Miraschi movement through its financial corporation, American-Eretz Israel Corporation (AMEIC), at its recent convention, Pinkas said, is an "important development" which will make American religious-Zionists a significant factor in Israel's growth. He emphasized that the United Religious Bloc in Israel, "whose labor and capitalist members are not as extreme in their convictions as other elements of similar ideologies" will be an influential force in establishing "a middle path economy."

Denying any attempts by any religious groups to Israel to establish a theocracy in the Jewish State, the Miraschi leader asserted that "Israel is a thoroughly democratic government. If the majority of the members of Knesset (parliament) decide that the Sabbath or kashrut should be constitutionally sanctioned, that is democracy. If an individual disagrees with the Knesset decision, that is his privilege, but there can be no restraining a measure which is arrived at through democratic procedure." Pinkas added that "ninety-nine percent of the Yishuv agrees upon keeping Jewish tradition as the basis of the Jewish State and from upon efforts to import alien ideologies from South Africa or Great Britain, or France or Germany." He concluded, saying that "Miraschi wants to reestablish the socialism of Isaiah which served the Jewish people very happily long before Marx came onto the scene."

Leor Gellman, president of the Miraschi Organization, who was related to his post for the 13th

Israel Must Double Census

Dr. Israel Goldstein, treasurer of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, said that Israel must double its present population of almost 1,000,000 before it can feel reasonably secure. He spoke to 1,300 persons at a luncheon given by the Council of Organizations of the United Jewish Appeal of Greater New York at the Commodore.

Israel continues to have three major problems, he said, absorption of immigrants, housing them and settling them in colonies in all sections of the country. He placed particular emphasis on housing, saying that Jews required to remain in camps in Israel "are in as much danger to their physical and mental well-being as front-line soldiers."

Israel urgently needs 50,000 new housing units this year to absorb the immigrants, Dr. Goldstein said. The guests at the luncheon unanimously adopted a resolution to raise funds for the construction of houses in Israel.

Magistrate Morris Rothenberg, of New York, said that the State of Israel may be forced to halt immigration unless financial aid from world Jewry is continued on the same scale as in past years.

"Let there be no mistake about it, this threat exists," he told the twenty-ninth annual convention of the Miraschi Organization of America at the St. Charles Hotel. Magistrate Rothenberg, who is president of the Jewish National

Yeshiva To Seek 5,000 Students

With Vice-President Alben W. Barkley making the principal address, Yeshiva University closed its Dedication Week with a dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, in New York.

Dr. Samuel Belkin, president, said the next phase of development of the university's $7,500,000 plan contemplates an enrollment of 5,000 students as against the 1,500 now enrolled in the buildings on Amsterdam Avenue between 185th and 186th Streets.

He announced a gift of $50,000 to Yeshiva's endowment fund by Morris Morgenstern, realtor, of 1819 Broadway, to be used for an annual award to a public servant of outstanding ability.

Dr. J. Hilis Miller, president of the University of Florida, who was Associate Commissioner of Education of the State of New York when he recommended the charter for Yeshiva University to the Board of Regents in 1941, described and praised the growth of the university since then into its present components of the Rabbi Isaac Elchanan Theological Seminary, the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, the Teachers Institute, the Bernard Revel Graduate School, the Harry Fischel School

Fund, pointed out that curbing of immigration "would defeat the very purpose for which the state was created."

TURNING THE PAGES OF "CANADA UNLIMITED"

The sight of carriages on rails was a source of much excitement in the little town of La Prairie, near Montreal, in 1836. Clanking and rattling on their way to St. John, Quebec, these horse-drawn cars were Canada's first railway.

A line from Montreal to Santa was finished in 1855. It covered 1,100 miles, and was at that time the world's longest railway. The first trans-Canada railway was built by the Canadian Pacific and completed in 1917. Overcoming great hazards, railroad men pushed across the prairies and foothills, through rugged mountain passes—then on to the Pacific coast.

Today Canadian trains travel on rails that would twice encircle the world, and carry more than 40 million travellers swiftly, safely and comfortably.

Canada has grown with the railways. With the appearance of diesel-electric locomotives and the gradual change-over to this more modern form of motive power, a new era of transportation is beginning. This new era offers vast opportunities for Canadians. Yes, there's room to grow—in Canada Unlimited.

Studio In Israel

The foundation stone was laid for Israel's first motion picture studio, in Herzlia, near Tel Aviv. The $800,000 project, covering twenty acres, will be rented to local or foreign producers. American film companies, whose $600,000 earnings in Israel are frozen by currency restrictions, may make films to utilize their assets.

The American Associates of Israel, film studio with branches in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles, holds a 50 per cent interest in the enterprise and will ship equipment from the United States. Israeli partners will erect a laboratory and sound stages and the Jewish National Fund has allocated land from its public holdings.

Sponsors said applications for use of the studio already have been received from independent American producers including Andre Bohem, who holds an option on Thomas Mann's "Joseph and His Brothers", and Fred Zinneman, who recently visited Israel and is working on a script for a sequel to "The Search".

The new enterprise has ties with Hollywood through an advisory council consisting of leading personalities. A technical committee, including leading laboratory men, sound engineers and cameramen, have examined plans for the studio and producers and directors will serve on a production committee to advise producers and help in the distribution of Israeli-made films.

At the ceremony, messages were read from William Dieterle, William Wyler and Roberto Rossellini, who said they would like to make pictures in Israel.

HEAD OF RESORT GROUP REMOVES SIGN

A sign reading "For Christians Only" and posted at the Lake Beesack resort community near Middlefield, Conn., was taken down although residents of the community voted to keep it in place. Clifford Hamilton, president of the summer colony, said.

The eighteen-inch-square sign was erected when the community was formed in 1930 and since then many residents have urged its removal. At a community meeting, owners of homes along the lake shore voted 68 to 17 to keep it standing.

Mr. Hamilton, an opponent of the sign, had said, "Don't worry. It'll be down this week and I doubt if any one will raise any fuss. The vote didn't really represent the feeling of the community. I've talked to many residents who realize a sign like that has no place in our country. A lot of people voted for the sign just because they felt those who were trying to get it down were just doing it for publicity. They realize they were wrong."

The community, known as Lake Beesack, Inc., owns a clubhouse and property on the west shore of the mile-long lake. The other side is part of the town of Middlefield, nineteen miles northeast of New Haven.

A contribution of $40,000 from the Leasing Rosenwald Foundation of Jenkintown, Pa., was announced by the International Rescue Committee, a non-sectarian group for resettlement of Displaced Persons. The contribution was accompanied by a note from the president of the Anti-Zionist American Council for Judaism, in which Rosenwald placed great emphasis on the value of non-sectarianism. L. H. Wood, chairman of the group, said, "Rosenwald, who has refused to contribute to the United Jewish Appeal, said he had made a personal study of the work of the group. 'I am convinced on the basis of that study that it is rendering an admirable and even unique humanitarian service,' Rosenwald said. 'I particularly admire its enlightened, democratic spirit; its non-sectarian, non-segregation approach.' The disclosure of the contribution was a departure from previous practice of the anti-Zionist leader, who is understood to prefer no publicity for his philanthropic contributions."

Mrs. Lily Sachs, Colonial Avenue, is spending the summer in Val Morin.

Mrs. Bernard Silverman, 11822 Drapeau Avenue, Montreal North, entertained about thirty guests at a garden tea in celebration of the engagement of her youngest daughter, Etta, to Jerry Gross, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. I. Gross, 4082 Clark Street, whose marriage will take place in October. Mrs. Silverman wore a black crepe dress, with a white flowered print, designed with three-quarter-length sleeves, and a straight skirt. Mrs. Gross wore a black crepe dress, printed with rose-shaded and white flowers, made with short sleeves and flared skirt. The honoree wore a beige gabardine bolero suit, with a white silk blouse. Jews Plead For Ex-Nazi

The American Civil Liberties Union announced that it had made a plea to United States military officials on behalf of a former Nazi leader.

In a statement issued in New York, Arthur Garfield Hays, general counsel of the union, and a Jew, and Roger N. Baldwin, director of the group, said they had appealed for the transfer of Ernest Wilhelm Bohle from Landsberg prison in Germany "where his life is threatened by his former Nazi associates."

Bohle, former chief of Nazi propaganda abroad, was the only one of the defendants in a recent Nuremberg trial to plead guilty, the civil liberties officials said. Because of his assistance to the Allies, he incurred the enmity of his former associates and despite precautions by prison guards he is not safe in Landsberg, they added. A year remains of his five-year prison sentence.

They said Bohle is now "a convinced anti-Nazi whose good faith is clear," adding that "it would be a scandal of the first magnitude if the one defendant who pleaded guilty and aided the prosecution should suffer death or injury by his former Nazi associates."

The appeal was sent to Secretary of the U. S. Army Gordon Gray and to Maj. Gen. George P. Hays, deputy military governor of Berlin.

A $1,500 scholarship for a year's work and study in Israel was presented to Deborah Neizman, of Brooklyn, N. Y., by Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America. Miss Neizman flew to Israel with her guitar under her arm, is touring villages and agricultural settlements, collecting, playing and recording Yeminite, Arabic and other Oriental folk music sung by Jewish immigrants. A folk music enthusiast, she has conducted many Zionist choral groups and has encouraged community singing among

CLASS IN COOKERY

ORANGE APPLE PIE

one cup flour one-quarter cup ice-water
one-quarter teaspoon salt one-quarter cup shortening

Sift together salt and flour. Cut in the shortening and add ice-water. This will make one small double crust pie.

Filling

one cup brown sugar two tablespoons butter six large tart apples grated rind of one orange one-quarter cup orange juice

Wash, pare, and core apples, and arrange thin slices in pastry-lined nine-inch pie pan, and add sugar, orange rind, and orange juice. Dot with butter, moisten edge of pastry with water and cover with the top pie crust, pricked out with a design. Trim and press edges together with a floured fork. Bake in a hot oven, 425 degrees, for ten minutes, then reduce heat to moderate, 350, and bake for twenty minutes or more until the apples are tender.

Mrs. M. Balinsky.

476 Dundas Street West, Toronto.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

four eggs one teaspoon vanilla
one scant cup sugar one teaspoon baking powder
one scant cup flour one-quarter teaspoon salt

Beat eggs until light and fluffy, adding sugar gradually until thick and smooth. Sift flour three times, then sift with baking powder and salt; fold into egg mixture gradually. Add flavoring. Line a shallow cake-pan, ten by sixteen inches, or a cookie sheet, with wax-paper, greased on both sides. Spread batter evenly, and bake in a 400-degree oven for twelve or fifteen minutes. Turn out immediately onto a slightly damp linen cloth; remove paper, and quickly trim off edges with sharp knife. Roll up in damp cloth. This can be rolled up and placed in refrigerator overnight, if desired, and filling can be added the following day. This can be filled with crushed sweetened strawberries, and whipped cream, and spread with whipped cream, and then rolled up again. Or three tablespoons cocoa can be added to batter, to make a chocolate roll, and it can be filled and spread with sweetened whipped cream; or with butterscotch filling, and spread with whipped cream.

Butterscotch Filling:

Mix together one cup light brown sugar, one-third cup flour, and a few grains of salt, in the top of a double boiler. Add one cup scalded milk, and stir carefully. Cook in top of double boiler until thick, stirring constantly, and then add two eggs, slightly beaten. Continue stirring until mixture is thick and smooth. Remove from fire, add two tablespoons butter, and one-half teaspoon vanilla.

BAR-MITZVAH MUST HAVE FOUR YEARS OF HEBREW SCHOOL

Rabbi Irwin J. Hyman, president of the Rabbinical Council of Syracuse, N.Y., announced that a meeting of all rabbis of the community has agreed to require from every boy in a weekday bar-mitzvah class, in a synagogue, a minimum of four years of satisfactory attendance at a recognized weekday Hebrew school.

Rabbi Hyman said a transition period of four years will be allowed when all children nine or over who enrolled immediately in a weekday school will be eligible. The Jewish Community School, the Temple Adath Hebrew School and the Concord Hebrew School were recognized as qualified to prepare for a bar-mitzvah ceremony.

A bar-mitzvah committee of Rabbi Hyman and Dr. Isaac Levitas, director of the Bureau of Jewish Education, was named to draw up regulations and enforce the resolution.

The regulations approved by the Rabbinical Council provide that in special cases, a boy may take private lessons. Special cases include reasons which make it impossible for a candidate to attend a recognized school, such as ill health, distance from school, recent arrival in the city, or any other reason accepted by the bar-mitzvah committee.

In such cases, Rabbi Hyman said, the candidate will be given an examination by the bar-mitzvah committee to determine whether he has

Nobody expects a man suffering from tuberculosis to cure himself unaided. But many people expect a person suffering from mental illness to "snap out of it" alone. Canadians should realize that mental illness is just as real as physical sickness and that competent medical care is necessary to restore the patient to health. Mental illness is a disease, not a disgrace.

Toronto Meetings

NEW MOUNT SINAI Hospital: Building operations on the $5,250,000 structure are expected to get under way some time in August, according to Ben. Sadowski, chairman of the board of directors; and Arthur Cohen, chairman of the building committee. Tenders for the demolition of a number of dwellings on the hospital property, at University and Elm Streets, have been let. Demolition will start some time this month. Active work has been delayed until now because of large scale revisions in the building plans. Originally planned as a 212-bed institution, the New Mount Sinai will have provision for 351 beds and 86 bassinets. Plans also call for complete out-patient, laboratory, medical and surgical departments. No word, including the public sections, will have over four beds.

Literature Is Played Out, Says Famous Editor, At 89

Abraham Cahan, of New York, editor of The Jewish Daily Forward and probably the foremost living journalist and author in Yiddish in America, found the world progressing on the eve of his 89th birthday. Though the movement is uneven, fearful, painful and planless, he declared it is generally forward toward that democratic socialism which he has been advocating for sixty-five years.

Nearing the completion of his ninth decade, this small, spare man with snowy hair and moustache is still dynamic. He lives alone, goes to his office three times a week and keeps up with news of the world.

The man whose trenchant writing and editing introduced America to two generations of immigrant Jews makes few concessions to age. He follows his custom of going to his office "just to see that everything is in shape". Younger men have taken over much of the burden of editing the paper, but, according to his associates, Mr. Cahan's touch is still on the paper.

In a birthday interview in his apartment at the Hotel Algonquin, the white-haired dean of Jewish journalism discussed Communism, Socialism, international events, Israel, the possibility of a depression and literature.

Through every subject ran the thread of a single prophecy — America is always and healthy; will survive the threats of Communism and depression and will in the future produce men as mighty as it has in the past.

Sometimes he lost his breath in long replies. Sometimes his companion, Sam Nidenberg, had to shout the interviewer's questions into his ear, for the midday traffic in Forty-fourth Street can be noisy. But, the blue eyes still sparkle beneath the tufted white eyebrows, his sensitive face still glows with animation and his mind takes hold of an idea as eagerly as ever, says the New York Times.

"Yes, the world is progressing," Mr. Cahan said. "Just think of the changes that have occurred in my own lifetime. The United States is altogether a different country from that I saw when I landed here without a nickel in 1882. Now it is the leading nation of the world. The American system made good."

"The Jewish people have made tremendous advances, too, in America. Especially under Franklin Roosevelt. Now they have their own country in Palestine — no, you mustn't say Palestine any more — in Israel."

"I have never been a Zionist, always a Socialist. But all of us must support Israel now. They need money to settle the new immigrants; people are sleeping in the streets there. The money can come from only one place, from America, from New York. Who else has money today?"

"Here is a curious thing: Zionists did not used to be Socialists, but the first government of the new Zion is Socialist, and they are establishing socialism there. So I guess I knew what I was talking about on the East Side in the eighties. It shows that ideas and principles that are right become realities in the long run. Ben-Gurion and Israel will succeed, too, in the long run."

Eager to discuss the major problems in the world, Mr. Cahan brushed aside the first questions about the future of Jewish journalism put to him by the New York Herald Tribune. His face lighted up, however, when he was asked: "What do you consider the most important problem facing America?"

"That's a real question," was the response. "But I suspect the real answer lies with Stalin. He is America's problem — but he has far larger problems than we do. America is fast outstripping Russia. Almost every Russian who comes to the United States is happy to embrace democracy."

What about his native Russia, communism, the cold war? He laughed.

"The Bolsheviks want to give in now, but they don't know how to do it," said the editor whose polemics against the Communists are well known. "They would like to find some means of quitting the cold war and yet come out on top of the heap. Of course, that is impossible."

Mr. Cahan saw no immediate prospect of war, asserting that Russia was unable to fight at this time. Just as Communism is receding throughout the world, so it is on the downgrade in the United States, and no longer is a serious menace, he said.

Asked if he thought the Communist party should be outlawed, Mr. Cahan laughed and responded emphatically in the negative. "I've spent a good part of my life opposing them," he said. "I'd just as soon see them forced into the open rather than underground. When we see them, they don't have a chance. Why make it possible for them to hide?"

Mr. Cahan pointed out that Israel would survive all onslaughts against it and in the next three or four years would emerge as a democratic Socialist state.

Concerning literature, Mr. Cahan, himself the author of a number of books, harked back to his native Russia. "England, France, America, all have produced writers," he said. "But they have produced none to match Tolstoy. The Russians produced great writers who knew the sorrows and problems of people — but all that was before Stalin. Dictatorship leads to intellectual sterility."

Was Mr. Cahan working on any fiction to add to his long list of novels and short stories in Yiddish and English?

"No, it is too hot. Anyway, there is no literature in this country, no interest in literature. The people in America don't give a damn for literature. The average educated man knows nothing about literature and cares less; he is preoccupied with politics, current events, business, social questions occasionally."

"Literature is played out. Like the Republican party. Only, in the case of the Republican party, it is a good thing. Thanks to President Roosevelt. You know, when Roosevelt was first elected President, I said at a big rally that his program was social democratic, and that he should call himself a Socialist. You could hear hisses all over the hall. Would anybody hiss that statement today?"

When a healthy child refuses to eat his food, the underlying cause can usually be traced back to infancy. Generally the parents are more at fault than the children and if a feeding problem develops, parents would be wise to consult a good doctor. Feeding problems can't usually be solved overnight. A problem that has been growing for years may take months to solve.

Mrs. Brown, mother of the groom, wore a coral-coloured crepe gown, fashioned with a cowl neckline, long fitted sleeves, and straight skirt, draped in the front to form a bustle back; also a matching hat, and matching corsage. The bride and groom left on their honeymoon to New York, the bride travelling in a pale blue gabardine suit, with navy-blue accessories, and an orchid corsage. They are residing in Buffalo, N.Y.

If you're planning to bleach out the tan or those freckles in order to look your best for the big dance, don't. These conditions are brought about by coloring matter or pigment under the skin and there is no safe way of removing them quickly. Given time they will fade out themselves but artificial measures for hastening this process are unwise.

A Sefer Torah which began its journey in America, then was carried to France, off the shore of Israel, back to France, then to Germany has at last come to rest in the Holy Land. The Torah scroll was originally presented to the personnel of the now-famed "Illegal" immigrant vessel, S.S. Exodus, by the American Mizrahi movement. Rabbi Israel Porcelino, one of the "illegals" who made that precarious journey shifting between continents on the leaky Exodus, presented the holy scroll to the Moriah Synagogue of the Mizrahi movement in Jaffa.

Painting is often a hazardous occupation as anyone who has seen painters suspended high in the air on a bridge or building can attest. But another danger to painters is toxic vapors that frequently rise from lead paints in confined spaces. Spray painting is especially dangerous in this regard and painters should always be equipped with suitable safety devices. Provincial health departments can supply information on safe painting practices in industry.

TODAY WE LIVE IN A NEW CANADA

New Signs in the Sky...

A distant hum and a flashing streak in the outer sky announce another exciting Canadian achievement—a new jet plane designed and built by Canadians—one more example of the meteoric advances made by Canadian skills and manufacturing abilities.

In Canada, too, giant airliners, which have won international recognition, are now being built for the world's air routes of today and tomorrow.

Today our production—both in extent and variety—has attained heights undreamt of even ten years ago, creating new opportunities in every field of activity for the talents and enterprise of young Canadians.

Increase of air traffic today: Canada's commercial aircraft carry more than four times the number of passengers and three times the amount of mail they did in 1939.

"Countless New Opportunities..."

"I sometimes find it hard to realize the extent and rapidity of our plans' growth. It has all been based, of course, upon the tremendous expansion of Canadian industry in general, which has created countless new opportunities in every field of activity for the energy and enthusiasm of young Canadians."

The development of Sehl Engineering is a typical Canadian success story. Only 14 years ago, Mr. Sehl, with one assistant, began operating a small tool and die shop in Kitchener. Its expansion has been spectacular, with new lines of production added, new departments established and new plants built. Today the company, with 90 employees, is fast becoming one of the leading metal producing concerns in the country.

The Future Of Progressive Judaism

By Rabbi Leo Baeck, President Of The World Union
For Progressive Judaism

The strength and therefore the future of progressive Judaism depends on whether it means to be a movement or only a party.

In what lies the peculiarity of any party? It is something necessary, and it can be not merely useful but full of blessing, if individuals whose place in life and way of life are different recognise that they yet have essential and important ideas and hopes in common and unite and, even under difficulties, hold together in order to safeguard and to further those common ideas and endeavours. It is thus that parties have come into being and have often from small beginnings risen to greatness and significance. Wherever in a nation or any community there awoke the will of a people to govern its own fate, where thus a public opinion has formed itself, parties are indispensable. They are a necessary instrument also in a religious community, not least in the Jewish community, too, which, within the ways of life here common to all, would grant wide scope to the various trends of thought.

Here, too, to belong to a party and to cooperate within it, can do much good. Here the individual receives the assurance of not standing alone, of having a great number of companions inherent in a party or which at least threatens it. It is the danger that a party may believe it exists and may want only to exist, for its own sake and endeavour to be an end in itself.

A party which intends in itself to have its entire meaning and purpose, in itself to possess the complete fulfilment of its task will inwardly become narrow, even though it may outwardly expand; moreover it will become intolerant, wherever it possesses or believes itself to possess power. Besides, individuals belonging to a party are sometimes prone to let the party think in their stead and thus lose much of the force of their individuality and even of their humanity — human morals are replaced by party morals.

This danger is best and safest countered, if a party never ceases looking beyond itself, if it always remains conscious of existing only for that which reaches beyond it and is greater than itself. If a party, a group, always remembers that it exists for the sake of a great whole, that it is called upon to serve and to help not only itself but this great whole, then all the good that can rest in a party or group will prevail in it and those dangers will not be able to pervade it. One may also put it thus: then it will not be merely a party, but at the same time and above all a movement, a party as the living expression of a living movement.

In what lies the peculiarity of a movement? A movement does not only want to secure a place, though that, too, is an important task, a task set to every party and which it has to fulfil, but it wants to point out a goal and a road to it and wants to set out for that goal, to go forward on that road. It does not rest its claim on that which is, but on that which should be; therefore it does not want to exercise compulsion either on those who are within it or on those who are outside it, but wants to guide and to set an example.

Therefore, the place which it justly wants to safeguard will never be the place of power, that great danger to religious majorities, especially the conservative ones, nor the place of a convenient and easy religious life which makes no great demands, that especial danger to liberal religious groups, nor moreover a place where any ambitions seek satisfaction, that danger to the disciplined groups; but it will be a place from which a road starts, the place which is there in order that a road may start from it. And the road shows also to others, indeed it means to show to all, where they should go and are able to go each from his own standpoint, and his own place, each in his direction, at his pace and on his way. It always shows the task which is to be fulfilled.

In this sense our progressive Judaism means to be a movement, a stirring force, urging forward within our Judaism, public conscience within public opinion, within the parties of Judaism. Not only for our own sake, but for the sake of all Judaism do we want to walk our way and to show the way. Only if progressive Judaism is able to give a strength and show a future to all Judaism will it possess strength and have a future.

of Higher Jewish Studies, the Talmudical Academy, the Institute of Mathematics, and the School of Education and Community Administration.

"All of them," he said, "constitute in their ways a distinct contribution to American culture from the great lore and culture on which they are founded."

Dr. Leo Jung, rabbi of the Jewish Center in New York and Professor of Ethics at Yeshiva, said: "We must not view America as merely the land of optimum economic or political opportunity, but as a maximum of moral responsibility. Yeshiva represents the greatest chance for the achievement of this task."

Charles M. Silver, chairman of the Dedication Week, presided. He said the next phase of development would include not only the non-sectarian medical school but an Institute for Adult Education, graduate studies in mathematics, and day courses for the College of Arts and Sciences.

ISRAELIS TO BE

consecutive term at the Mizrahi national convention, decried newspaper reports "which distorted and falsified the relations between Mizrahi and Hapoel Hamizrachi." He said "there has been no rift or schism" between both groups, but rather "proposals have been presented for ratification by both parties at the World Mizrahi conference in Israel this August which aim to coordinate rather than separate, to unite in equal partnership, rather than disunite in striving factions."

He explained that the American Mizrahi movement has been the main source of support of the Hapoel Hamizrachi in Israel, providing the religious-labor movement with considerable financial aid and equipment which made possible the establishment and expansion of religious colonies and settlements. Mr. Gellman said that American Mizrahi will continue and even increase its aid in the future to religious groups laboring for the strengthening of the new Jewish State.

Clarifying the "reorganization proposals" adopted at the Mizrahi convention, Mr. Gellman pointed out that "it is proposed a world federation of General Mizrahi groups be established which will cooperate fully and harmoniously with the world federation of Hapoel Hamizrachi groups already in existence." Any reports of "rupture or split" is pure "malicious reporting," the Mizrahi president stated. Prior to his departure for Israel, Mr. Pinkas was tendered a farewell dinner by the national administration of the Mizrahi Organization.

not suspend its efforts during the vacation months, Mr. Morgenthau said.

"There is widespread talk in the United States of recession, of economic deterioration, of depressed business conditions. However, real or purely superficial this may be for any particular individual or any special community, I do not think that any one would contend that given the will and the ingenuity, we in this country at the present time cannot find the resources to keep going programs which literally mean the difference between a new life and continued misery to

Asks Soviet Bloc To Let Jews Out

An appeal to the countries in the Soviet bloc to open their doors for the free emigration of Jews to Israel was made by S. Z. Shragal, of the executive committee of the Jewish Agency of Israel, at the twenty-sixth national convention of Hapoel Hamizrachi, Religious Labor Zionists of America, at South Fallsburg, N.Y.

"As the first country to grant full recognition to the Jewish State," Mr. Shragal said, "Russia should not now prevent Israel from welcoming within its borders the hundreds of thousands of Europe's hundreds upon hundreds of thousands of people."

One of the U. J. A.'s programs which will have to be curtailed if adequate sums are not forthcoming, Mr. Morgenthau said, is the plan to build a minimum of 44,000 housing units in Israel before the end of this year.

ASKS MARSHALL

one of the major problems facing Israel today is providing adequate housing for 200,000 recent immigrants.

He reported that the new country plans a vast program of industrialization, expansion of its cooperative farm projects, reclamation of the Negev desert and the building of scientific and cultural institutions.

Jews who find it impossible to rebuild their lives on the graveyards of their massacred kin."

As to whether Israel should identify itself with the Eastern or Western powers, Mr. Shragal said that Israel's survival depended on its ability to stand alone.

"The Jewish people have not regained their independence after 2,000 years of subjugation only to become the pawn of any world power," he said.

Dr. H. Raphael Gold of New York, president of Hapoel Hamizrachi, told the 500 delegates that "out of Israel is going to come a Magna Charta of truly human labor relations, based on ideals of prophetic justice and not on Marxian materialism."
